Rochester College Students with Disability Accommodation Policy

In compliance with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 Rochester College provides reasonable accommodation(s) to qualified students with disabilities.

A qualified student with a disability is a person who meets the academic and nonacademic admission criteria essential to participate in the program in question and who, with or without reasonable accommodation(s), can perform the essential functions of the program or course requirements.

The Accommodation Officer through Rochester College facilitates reasonable accommodation(s) and support services for qualified students with a properly documented disability. A disability is a physical or mental impairment substantially limiting one or more major life activities. Written documentation, current within three years, from an appropriate professional is required.

Admission Process

The Rochester College admissions process is necessarily a competitive and selective one. A student's high school record (course difficulty and performance) and test scores are important elements in admissions decisions, but other accomplishments and personal qualities are also relevant since the College seeks a diverse body of students.

Rochester College considers the admission applications of persons with disabilities under the same criteria as all other applications. Applicants are not required to disclose a disability during the application process; however, if an applicant's disability had a significant impact on his/her high school academic performance or experience, the applicant may provide appropriate documentation to the admissions office if he/she wants the impact of the disability to be taken into consideration.

Receiving Accommodations

To receive accommodations, students must make an appointment to register with the Accommodation Officer. Follow these steps:

1. Make an appointment with the Accommodation Officer as soon as possible, ideally a minimum of four weeks before services are required.
2. Provide written documentation (see Guidelines for Documentation) detailing the disability underlying the request, including the specific accommodation requested.
3. After reasonable accommodations are determined, the Accommodation Officer will prepare an email memo that lists accommodations approved by the Accommodation Officer. The Accommodation Officer will email the memo to appropriate faculty and staff, with the student copied on the communication.
4. Students are responsible for communicating with faculty and staff about how accommodations will be implemented in class. Students should schedule an appointment with their professors and discuss specific arrangements for reasonable accommodations. Revealing your diagnosis to faculty is not required but sharing information about how the disability impacts your learning can give the professor insight into teaching methods helpful to you.
5. A student must renew his/her accommodations every semester with the Accommodation Officer.

Guidelines for Documentation of a Specific Disability

The student bears the responsibility to request accommodation(s) and provide documentation of his/her disability including a specific diagnosis with evidence to support and identify specific limitations. After acceptance to Rochester College or immediately following an injury or a diagnosis of a disorder, the student should contact the Accommodation Officer to report the disability as soon as possible. Reporting the disability to any other representative of the College will not initiate the official procedure needed to establish eligibility for support services.

Documentation must be current (within the last three years; however, exceptions are sometimes necessary depending upon the individual case) and in writing from a licensed/certified professional and must provide the following information:

- Date of evaluation.
- Diagnosis - specific with International Classification of Diseases (ICD) classification.
- Method of the evaluation/examination.
- Specific limitation with respect to the disability's current impact in the College and educational environment.
- Medication - expectation in results of functioning, or cognitive impairment.

Documentation must be based on an evaluation from appropriately credentialed professional.

Examples:

- A physical condition diagnosed by a physician, ophthalmologist, audiologist, physical therapist, etc.

- A learning disability diagnosis from a professional who is trained and qualified to evaluate specific learning disabilities in adolescents and adults: psychologists, learning disabilities specialists, medical doctors, etc.
- An emotional illness diagnosed by a psychologist, psychiatrist, or other qualified licensed mental health provider.

Documentation should be current within three years; however, exceptions are sometimes necessary depending upon the individual case. In some situations, Rochester College requests verification every twelve months. Up-to-date information which outlines the student's present level of functioning is often essential in assessing the current need for specific accommodation(s).

Students seeking support services from Rochester College on the basis of a diagnosed specific learning disability are required to submit documentation to verify eligibility under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990. Rochester College determines protection under these civil rights statutes on a case-by-case basis and accommodation(s) are based upon documentation of a learning disability that currently and substantially limits some major life activity including learning.

The following guidelines are provided to assure documentation is appropriate to verify eligibility and to support requests for reasonable accommodation(s), academic adjustments, and/or auxiliary aids. This is not intended to be an exhaustive list or to restrict assessment in other pertinent and helpful areas such as vocational interests and aptitudes.

- Testing must be comprehensive. It is not acceptable to administer only one test for the purpose of diagnosis or establishing that substantial limitation in a major life activity currently exists in individuals with a previous diagnosis of a learning disability. Minimally, domains to be addressed must include (but are not limited to):
 - Aptitude
 - Wechsler Adult Intelligence Scale - Revised (WAIS-R) or WAIS-III with subtest scores is the preferred instrument.
 - Woodcock-Johnson Psychoeducational Battery - Revised: Tests of Cognitive Ability or the Stanford-Binet Intelligence Scale: Fourth Edition are acceptable.
 - The Kaufman Brief Intelligence Test (KBIT) is not a comprehensive measure and therefore is not suitable.
 - Achievement: Current levels of functioning in reading, mathematics, and written language are required.
 - Woodcock-Johnson Psycho educational Battery - Revised: Tests of Achievement
 - Wechsler Individual Achievement Test (WIAT)
 - Stanford Test of Academic Skills (TASK)
 - Scholastic Abilities Test for Adults (SATA)
 - Specific achievement tests such as the Test of Written Language - 3 (TOWL-3), Woodcock Reading Mastery Tests - Revised, and the Stanford

Diagnostic Mathematics Test. The Wide Range Achievement Test - 3 (WRAT-3) and the Mini-Battery of Achievement (MBA) are not comprehensive measures of achievement and therefore are not suitable.

- Information Processing: Specific areas of information processing must be assessed. For example: short- and long-term memory, sequential memory, auditory and visual perception/processing, processing speed.
 - Information from subtests on the WAIS-R (or WAIS-III), the Woodcock-Johnson Tests of Cognitive Ability, or the Detroit Tests of Learning Aptitude-Adult (DTLA-A), as well as other instruments relevant to the present learning problem(s) may be used to address these areas.
- Testing must be current. In most cases, this means testing has been conducted within the past three years, but the College may require more recent testing in certain circumstances. The provision of all reasonable accommodations and services is based upon assessment of the current impact of the student's disabilities on his/her academic performance; therefore, it is in the student's best interest to provide recent and appropriate documentation.
- There must be clear and specific evidence and identification of a learning disability. Individual "learning styles" and "learning differences" in and of themselves do not constitute a learning disability.
- Actual test scores must be provided. Standard scores are required; percentiles and grade equivalents are not acceptable unless standard scores are also included. This is important since certain College policies and procedures (e.g., petitioning for permission to substitute courses) require actual data to substantiate eligibility.
- In addition to actual test scores, interpretation of results is required. Test protocol sheets or scores alone are not sufficient.
- Professionals conducting assessment and rendering diagnoses of learning disabilities must be qualified to do so. Trained, certified and/or licensed school psychologists, neuropsychologists, clinical psychologists, learning disabilities specialists, and other professionals with training and experience relevant to adults and their evaluation are typically involved in the process of assessment.
- Tests used to document eligibility must be technically sound (i.e., statistically reliable and valid) and standardized for use with an adult population.
- Diagnostic reports must include the names, titles, and professional credentials (e.g., licensed psychologist) of the evaluator(s) as well as the date(s) of testing. All reports must be typed; handwritten scores or summary sheets are not acceptable.
- A written summary of background information about the student's relevant educational, medical, and family histories that relate to the learning disability must be included.

- Any recommendation for accommodation(s) should be based on objective evidence of a substantial limitation to learning supported by specific test results or clinical observations. Reports should establish the rationale for the recommended accommodation(s) using test data to document the need.
- A description of any accommodation and/or auxiliary aid used at the secondary or postsecondary level should be discussed. Include information about the specific conditions under which the accommodation was used (e.g., standardized testing, final exams) and whether or not it benefited the student.
- Individual Education Programs (IEPs) are useful, but are not in and of themselves, sufficient documentation to establish the rationale for accommodation(s).

Procedure for Academic Accommodation

Rochester College is committed to treating all individuals within the college, including those with disabilities, in a fair and equitable manner. Furthermore, it is the policy and practice of the college to comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. Under these laws, no otherwise qualified individual with a disability will be denied access to or participation in services, programs and activities of Rochester College.

Reasonable accommodations are developed on an individual basis, based on the documentation provided as well as collaboration with the student. Accommodations give access to programs but do not guarantee success in meeting program requirements. If an individual with a disability cannot meet the fundamental requirements of the academic program in which he or she is enrolled, even with reasonable accommodation(s), then he/she is not "otherwise qualified" to participate in the program. There is no charge for any accommodation. In instances where comparable access can be obtained from any one of several accommodations, the College reserves the right to select the accommodation method to be used.

Rochester College does not provide or pay for personal services. "Personal services" are services and/or equipment the individual with a disability would need even if he/she were not enrolled (hearing aids, personal/care attendants, etc.).

A student establishes eligibility for services by submitting the appropriate written documentation to the Accommodation Officer. Reasonable accommodations are determined by the diagnostic data and recommendations contained within the documentation. When a student with a disability enrolls in courses, the following sequence of events should occur:

1. If a student with a properly documented disability feels he/she may wish to request accommodation(s), he/she must give written permission for the Accommodation Officer to inform instructors the individual is a student with a properly documented disability. The student must request accommodation(s) every semester in which he/she is enrolled; this may be done via email to the Accommodation Officer. The instructor will receive written notification from the Accommodation Officer. Due to confidentiality concerns, specific information about the disability is not included. Instead, the letter notifies the instructor the student has a disability that needs to be accommodated. The letter of notification will delineate accommodation(s) that have been discussed and approved.

2. It is the student's responsibility to request accommodation(s) from individual professors. The student should schedule an appointment with each professor to discuss accommodation(s) he/she needs as well as to verify the professor has received the accommodation letter. Professors often report they receive a letter from the Accommodation Officer but the student does not follow up to request the accommodation(s). This sometimes happens because a student feels he/she will not require an accommodation in a particular course due to the manner in which material is presented, the means of evaluation, etc. It is always within the student's rights to refuse to request accommodation(s); however, a professor is not liable if the student fails to make timely arrangements for the accommodation and then performs poorly in the course.
3. The professor is only required to make available the accommodation(s) delineated within the letter of notification issued by the Accommodation Office. If, as the semester progresses, the student feels additional accommodation(s) is/are warranted, the student must initiate a discussion with the Accommodation Officer.
4. Discussing accommodation(s) with professors is an important step toward self-advocacy but is often an intimidating experience for students. Students needing assistance with this step should contact the Accommodation Officer.
5. If a problem develops, immediately notify the Accommodation Officer. Unless otherwise notified, the assumption will be made the semester is progressing properly.
6. If a student has questions or concerns, contact the Accommodation Officer.
7. Communication is done via the Rochester College email system. It is essential for the student to check his/her Rochester College email account on a daily basis.

Procedure for Housing & Dietary Accommodation

Rochester College is committed to the full participation of students in all aspects of college life including housing and dining experiences. In certain situations, students may need to request special housing and/or dietary accommodations. Reasonable accommodations are developed on an individual basis, based on the documentation provided. Students seeking special housing and/or dietary accommodations should complete the following steps:

1. When requesting housing and/or dietary accommodations, students are expected to have already completed all Rochester College housing applications and payment deadlines.
2. Register as a student with a disability with the Accommodation Officer. The student must provide appropriate documentation, which must come from a licensed professional, establish that the student has a disability, and necessitates a special accommodation. (If the request is a special diet, a diet prescription must be included). Please note that the Accommodation Officer may ask for additional information from the student and/or the practitioner.

3. For students seeking dietary accommodations, students must complete the appropriate “Rochester College Aladdin Meal Modification Exemption Request” available on the Student Portal.
4. For students requesting housing accommodations, please do not make a building specific request, but, instead request the accommodation needed (i.e. first floor, etc.) A building specific request is not considered a reasonable accommodation and cannot be evaluated by the Accommodation Officer in concert with the Student Life staff.
5. For housing and dietary accommodations, the student must renew accommodation(s) every academic year in which he/she is enrolled; this may be done via email to the Accommodation Officer.

- Discuss with the Accommodation Officer any concerns related to the accommodation(s) or arrangement(s) requested by the student during their initial contact.
- Determine the conditions under which the exam is to be administered (e.g., open book, use of notes, computer with word processing including spell check, formula sheet, calculator, scrap paper, dictionary).
- Provide appropriate accommodation(s), either personally or by making arrangements with the Accommodation Officer.

Accommodation Advisory Committee

If a specific accommodation request requires conflict resolution, the Accommodation Officer and the Rochester College Students with Disability Accommodation Policy are the official College agents in such matters. Students must provide relevant documentation of the disability from an appropriate professional source in order to verify eligibility for accommodation(s). This documentation is confidential and shared with College personnel on a need-to-know basis only.

Rochester College has established an Accommodation Advisory Committee under the jurisdiction of the College's chief academic officer. The purpose of this Committee is to assist the chief academic officer in resolving disagreements that arise concerning specific requests for academic accommodations on a case-by-case basis. The Committee serves as a resource for all College entities including faculty, academic administrators, and students for a final review of disagreements concerning specific academic accommodation requests.

Members of the Accommodation Advisory Committee will include the following:

- The Committee will be chaired by the chief academic officer or a designee.
- Faculty chairperson or designated representative of the Department offering the course(s) in which the accommodation is requested.

3. If agreement cannot be reached, the student, instructor, or College administrative staff may file a petition with the chief academic officer who would have responsibility for convening the Accommodation Advisory Committee.
4. The Committee reviews the petition and any additional relevant information from College personnel in order to render a decision within ten (10) days from the date of the petition. The decision of this Committee is final.
5. While a petition is under review by the Accommodation Advisory Committee, the instructor should provide reasonable accommodations.
